It was decided to call mass meetings of the Democracy in each magisterial district of the county, ten in number, for Saturday, April 28. It was learned this morning that there is the price to put the price. It was learned this morning that there is a movement on foot to put the price of coke back to $1.50. This proposition, it is said, will meet the support of the Producers' Assuciation. It is claimed that if they unite with the Coke Exchange that there is no reason why the price could not be kept at $1.50. It is argued that the market warrants this price and that it has been proved by outside fields with inferior qualities of coke cannot compete with the Connellsville people, and that all the latter need to do is to make some agreement by which they themselves will sustain the price agreed, upon. Some of the operators eed upon. Some of the operator nk that$150 coke will be decided upor ingreed upon. Some of the operators think that $150 coke will be decided upon, while others less sanguine are alraid that all will not be serene, and that before the end comes coke will be cut down to $90 cents. The reports from the Mahoning and Shenango valleys not being so encouraging this morning, and the danger of a shut down of the blast furnaces may have some effect on the market. One operator, in summing up the situation, said this morning that he was completely at sea, and could make no prediction as to the result of to-morrow's meeting, but was hoping that $150 coke would be agreed upon.

This morning it was reported that all of the coke produced and every pound that had been stocked was cleared up and shipped. The trade presents the peculiar position to-day that some firms are complaining of losing orders while others are making large shipments.
